While the R. A. F. cracked the whip over western Europe there were signs today that on the eastern front Russia had launched upon an offensive to knock Finland out of the war and outflank the Germans on their main northern anchors about Leningrad and southward.

Nearly 2,000 Finnish soldiers were reported killed last week in this apparent offensive likened in hitting power to the coupe de grace dealt the Finns by the Red Army two years ago to end their short winter war.

Russia and Finland fought that earlier war, with Germany on the sidelines, over the Russian demand for Finnish territorial leaseholds to shield Leningrad. The battle lines now are drawn up well inside the Finnish frontier of 1939, said dispatches through London.

The present Russian drive might have the additional effect of protecting the leasehold ports of Murmansk and Archangel while Adolf Hitler's main forces still mark time in the slush and mud from Leningrad south to the Crimea.

The Finnish high command said the Russians were attacking on the Karelian Isthmus and in the vicinity of the Stalin canal north of Lake Onega but asserted that the attacks had been repulsed.

The R. A. F. ruled the skies of western Europe today in its greatest offensive of the war, a strategic factor upon which the whole course of the conflict may depend.

It threatened devastation of centers of German power, one by one, in the deliberate manner of the last four nights of consecutive bombing at Rostock, a process no doubt would be speeded up when and if Germany gets under way against Russia.

It was estimated that 1,600,000 pounds of bombs had been dumped on Rostock.

To clinch this aerial sovereignty, the British had the promise that United States planes soon would be working with them wing to wing in a campaign which already has shagged Germany's own 1941 blitz.

The prospect of United States collaboration in the work of destruction was not new. It developed from the recent visit to Britain by the United States chief of staff, General George C. Marshall. But American participation in the offensive was still in secretive preparation.

Last night's R. A. F. pounding at Rostock, Baltic port of exit for supplies and troops to the northern Russian front as well as a great plane-building center, was followed up by another daylight sweep over the northern part of captive France.

Before noon, great bomber-fighter formations of the R. A. F. had winged across the English Channel and back from the direction of Boulogne.

Airdromes at Mardyck, near Calais, and Le Touquet, once a famous French beach resort, near Boulogne, were bombed and strafed at low level. One of the returning fighter pilots reported sighting four German anti-aircraft ships on the homeward trip. He left two of them afire.

The German high command reported a reprisal raid last night, in which the English resort town of Bath was "bombed with powerful effect," and the sinking of a patrol boat "in waters around Iceland."

British air power was coming as it could to opening up a second European front while the Germans still dalled, with a great diversion of their air power, on the Russian front.

In his Reichstag speech on Sunday, Adolf Hitler dropped a hint of expectancy that the war would go into another winter: "... in the coming winter, wherever it finds us, German railways will be better able to meet their tasks than in the last winter."

He spoke of Russia as the only front on which the war would be fought—whatever such a statement is worth.

These Men Have Case Against Japs

Among local registrants in America's fourth draft sign-up Sunday afternoon were Yee Kong Yick, 59, (sitting) and Lee Way, 46, of 726 Broadway, whose compatriots have a case against the Japs antedating Pearl Harbor. Both were born in Canton, China. They are signing up with the aid of Principal John Finerty of School No. 7.

Men from all walks of life in Kingston between the ages of 45 and 65 years, many of whom had served in the first World War in 1918, are registering for the occupational draft in the office of the Kingston Selective Service Board in the central post office building on Broadway.

There were 2,273 men registered on Saturday and Sunday and it is expected that when the registration closes at 9 o'clock tonight that approximately 3,000 men will have registered in the draft.

The draft board is being assisted in registering the men by members of Kingston Post of the American Legion and several volunteers. Mayor William F. Edelmuth was one of the men who registered and he also assisted in registering other men.

The registration started at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon but long before that time men began to gather at the building and when the doors opened there were fully 100 men lined up. The line of men extended out into the street for some distance.

Sunday was also a busy day with long lines of men waiting. The work of filling out the registration cards was carried on as rapidly as possible by the draft board and the volunteer assistants. In order to take care of the large (Continued on Page 10)

Army Will Put 52,000,000 Civilians
Under Military Regulation, Control

New York, April 27 (AP)—The conduct of 52,000,000 civilians soon will be subject to army regulation and control through designation of the entire Atlantic seaboard as the Eastern Military Area.

This sweeping wartime measure covering a 400,000-square-mile sector bigger than Germany and Italy combined was announced yesterday by Lieut. General Hugh A. Drum, commanding general of the eastern defense command and first army, as effective at "an early date."

Chief object in establishment of the military area, the announcement said, is to control the conduct of "enemy aliens as well as of all other persons" as a safeguard against subversive activities.

The first step in enforcement,

Saugerties Sailor
Dies in Cape Town

Mrs. Edward Buckley of Saugerties received word Saturday that her son, Earl Van Etten, had died in a Cape Town, South Africa, hospital following an operation which was performed there after the young man had been landed there from the steamer on which he had sniped recently as a member of the Marchant Marine.

Details of the tragedy were not known except that he had been taken ill aboard the boat and had been landed at Cape Town, which was the first port of call. There an operation was performed and it was presumed he was recovering.

Earl is a twin brother of Arthur Dean Van Etten, who was aboard the steel Seafarer when that boat was sunk in the Red Sea. Arthur has since been shipped aboard another boat. On the same boat with Earl was Fred Van Voorhis of Saugerties.

John H. Saxe, chairman for Ulster county, announces that the campaign to raise Ulster county's quota of the $5,000,000 fund which the Navy Relief Society seeks for the continuation of its work, starts in the towns of the county today. Chairman Saxe has named leaders for the campaign in the various towns and everything is ready for the start of the work of soliciting subscriptions.

Ulster county's share to be raised is $6,600, of which the city is expected to contribute $3,000 and the remainder will come from the county at large.

Matthew H. Herzog has been appointed chairman for the campaign in the city of Kingston and it is expected that the drive for funds in the city will start about Wednesday.

Former county treasurer Pratt Boice has been named by Chairman Saxe as treasurer for the fund in Ulster county and town leaders have been notified to forward to him, at 278 Wall street, duplicate subscription receipts and amounts paid in to them.

The Navy Relief Society is the official organization of the U. S. Navy. It was incorporated in 1904, but as far back as 1820 the men of the Navy were voluntarily contributing to a fund to carry out the slogan, "The Navy takes care of its own." The relief work includes the care of families of men and officers not only of the Navy, but also the Coast Guard and Marine Corps.

Present Need

The national appeal for funds now being made is the first ever made by the Navy Relief Society and the reason may be found in a recent statement by Secretary of the Navy Knox that "This country is now engaged in the greatest naval war in its history." It is stated that in the attack on Pearl Harbor 2,340 navy men were killed and 946 injured. In these few hours of action casualties were far greater among Navy men than during the entire period of the Navy's participation in World War I and the Spanish-American War. Thus, for the first time in its history, the Navy Relief Society is faced with a problem far beyond its abilities to meet from its own resources.

Upset Nazis'Lord Britton' Issues Call for Those Under Hitler to Stand Ready for Revolt

Date Is Set

Upheaval Would Come Within Six Weeks,
'Voice' SaysBy DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

As the time draws near for the joining of the crucial battle of the Hitlerian conflict, there emerges the possibility that this Armageddon may see uprisings in many places by the invisible army of the subjugated peoples.

Should this happen on an extended scale—and it might—it likely would produce bloody chaos in the affected areas. The fury of a revolting populace, even though lacking proper arms, can be very terrible.

Word long ago was spread throughout the conquered countries by Allied radio and by underground telegraph that the hour of deliverance would come, and the V-for-Victory symbol became a flaming torch of hope. Indeed, the campaign inspired so much premature violence that the British began urging these Hitler-ridden folk to hold their peace until the signal came for an uprising. It has been hard to keep them in hand, for the yoke of bondage has been cruel.

But now suddenly Britain's "Colonel Britton"—the radio voice which has been fostering and guiding the V-for-Victory army on the continent—has electrified his hearers by calling on them to prepare for united action. Probably within six weeks, says the spectral "Colonel," the sign will be given for the civilian uprising. Meanwhile the people are to lay plans to do the greatest possible damage to the Nazis by sabotage and other means.

Grisly Examples

Already France, Belgium, Norway, Holland and the countries of eastern Europe have given us many grisly examples of what the invisible army can accomplish. Almost every day adds to the list. Mysterious hands have been reaching out of the darkness of the night to snatch the lives of German soldiers. Even broad daylight has brought its swiftly moving assassinations. Troop trains have been wrecked, and bombs have been thrown. In short, there have been constant sabotage and killings despite the warnings from "Colonel Britton" to go slowly and not arouse Nazi ire until the time is ripe.

That the Nazis see the danger is shown by their wholesale execution of hostages in an effort to terrify the population into submission. Poland and other countries have charged the Germans with great massacres. But slayings have only made the fire of hatred burn hotter.

Fear that unrest might even boil up in his own country was indicated in Hitler's Reichstag speech yesterday. His demand for a note of grave concern to the ears of expert radio observers in London.

Just when the all-out Allied-Axis clash will come is still a matter of conjecture. Probably "Colonel Britton" guesses that the volcano will erupt in six weeks or less is a fair one. Of course, whatever else happens, the titanic Russo-German battle will increase in its bloody intensity as the ground dries and becomes suitable for a war of movement. Hitler said yesterday that "it will be in eastern Europe that this war will be decided" and few would dispute that observation.

The trend of events depends considerably on whether the Muscovites are able to keep the Fuehrer on the defensive along the eastern front. If that happens, and he finds himself unable to launch a big scale offensive against the Reds, we may see him lash out in some other direction, while holding his Russian line defensively.

Somewhere, somehow, Hitler must seize the initiative, for to remain on the defensive means that he will be beaten. As I remarked in last Saturday's column, we mustn't overlook the possibility that he might even try a blitz invasion of Britain in order to forestall a possible Allied invasion of (Continued on Page Seven)

(By The Associated Press)

Straining for conquest of Burma ahead of the wet monsoon coming in mid-May and jockeying with a fresh show of air power for southwest Pacific positions before the United Nations can strike back full force, Japan has a big job on her hands and little time in which to do it.

Premier General Hideki Tojo himself acknowledged today that "the war still has to be fought" despite Japan's victories so far.

"The war's coming stage will be a real test for the Japanese nation," he said in an address covered by the Tokyo radio. "... even we, who are behind the line, must be of the same mind as the troops at the front and be fully prepared to cope with any attack on Japan itself."

Wide-ranging allied bombers answered the sudden intensification of enemy air activity in the Australian theatre yesterday by blasting again at Japanese bases at Lae, New Guinea, and Bougainville, in the Solomon Islands. A Sunday attack by the Japanese on Port Moresby, New Guinea, was reported beaten off.

Burmese Drive Blocked

A new obstacle has been raised to Japan's conquest of Burma while in the Australian theatre there was gathering evidence of an imminent showdown.

Chinese veterans commanded by Lieut.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell on the Burma front have regained another foothold in the fight for time on the Burma front, recapturing Hopong and bettering their position to guard Mandalay from the southeast.

This did not mean that the Burma front had been stabilized, although it was the third town within a week which the Chinese fighters had wrested from the enemy. Yanangyung was retaken last week and Taunggyi over the week-end.

Mandalay remained under dire threat from the Irrawaddy valley to the southwest.

Both Hopong and Taunggyi are approximately 100 miles southeast of Mandalay, about 10 miles apart.

Indicating how much better the situation might be in Burma with sufficient air power at the command of the defense, Chungking also reported that the American flying Tigers encountered a flight of five enemy planes last Saturday (Continued on Page Seven)

Threat of Germans Toward West Africa
Demands U. S. Help for South America

By JOHN LEAR

Washington, April 27 (Wide World)—The threat of German occupation of West Africa, implied in Vichy France's increasing collaboration with Adolf Hitler, brings new pressure on the United States government to help South America improve its communications and rid them of all Nazi influence.

One responsible government source declared that quick action is necessary to:

Forestall any possibility of communication lines' being used to help a fifth column coup from within.

Set up one reliable continent-wide system in safe hands so that all points may be in immediate touch with all other points in event of an invasion.

For international communications, South Africa depends largely on American and British companies, but internal communications are sketchy.

Some areas important strategically but underdeveloped can communicate with their capitals only with delay. National telegraph systems have not been able to afford good equipment or adequate maintenance of lines to some coastal areas that are vitally important to defense.

Brazil, for example, long has desired better communications with her northeastern hump—closest to Dakar—and with the Amazon.

There is a similar situation in Ecuador, whose Pacific hump is being fortified against attack by the Japanese.

South America's existing communication lines have been thoroughly surveyed in the last few (Continued on Page Eight)

Roosevelt Will Speak to Nation Tuesday Evening

Washington, April 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today that during the war "no American citizen ought to have a net income, after he has paid his taxes, of more than $25,000 a year" in proposing to congress a seven-point program designed to combat the upward spiral in living costs.

The President proposed stabilization of wages and salaries of individuals, saying "I believe that stabilizing the cost of living will mean that wages in general can and should be kept at existing levels" and asked repeal of the provisions of the price-fixing law which allow farm commodities to rise to 110 per cent of parity. (Parity is the price designed to give the farmer a return, based on industrial purchases, enjoyed in a 1909-14 base period.)

"We must fix ceilings on the prices which consumers, retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers pay for the things they buy," the President said as he outlined his plan to keep the cost of living down, and added "ceilings on rents for dwellings in all areas affected by war industries," to the steps that must be taken.

Mr. Roosevelt also declared it was "indefensible that those who enjoy large incomes from state and local securities should be immune from taxation while we are at war" and urged that state, municipal and similar bonds "be subject at least to surtaxes."

Flatly opposing suspension of the 40-hour work week law, the President said:

"Most workers in munition industries are working far more than 40 hours a week, and should continue to be paid at time and a half for overtime. Otherwise, their weekly pay envelopes would be reduced."

Mr. Roosevelt reported that "all strikes are at a minimum."

The President will discuss the program for the nation in a radio address tomorrow night, Senate Democratic Leader Barkley said after a White House conference. The hour was not announced immediately.

The program, outlined in a message to Congress, was the administration's plan for gearing the economy of the nation and its people to emergency war conditions.

The Chief Executive also proposed heavy taxes, holding personal and corporate profits to reasonable levels, stabilization of prices received by farmers, discouraging credit and installment buying, rationing of all essential scarce commodities, and stimulation of the purchase of war bonds.

Only taxes and stabilization of farm prices, Mr. Roosevelt said, require legislative action.

But he added in his message, read to the Senate and House by clerks:

"If the Congress that is required objectives are not attained, and if the cost of living should continue to rise substantially, I shall so advise the Congress, and shall ask for any additional legislation which may be necessary."

Mr. Roosevelt said there were obvious reasons for taking every step necessary to prevent a rise in the cost of living, which already has moved up about 15 per cent since the autumn of 1939 and which might soar "another 80 per cent or 90 per cent during the next year or two."

Seven Objectives

These were the objectives which the President listed for Congress: "To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must tax heavily, and in that process keep personal and corporate profits at a reasonable rate, the 'reasonable' being defined at a low level.

"To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must fix ceilings on the prices which consumers, retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers pay for the things they buy; and ceilings on rents for dwellings in all areas affected by war industries.

"To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must stabilize the prices received by growers for the products of their lands.

"To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must encourage (Continued on Page Two)

Roosevelt Highlights

Washington, April 27 (AP)—Highlights of President Roosevelt's message to Congress today follow:

The rise in the cost of living during this war has begun to parallel the last. The time has definitely come to stop the spiral and we can face the fact that there must be a drastic reduction in our standard of living.

We must adopt as one of our principal domestic objectives the stabilization of the cost of living, for this is essential to the fortification of our whole economic structure.

I assure Congress that if the required objectives are not attained, and if the cost of living should continue to rise substantially, I shall advise the Congress, and shall ask for any additional legislation which may be necessary.

We are now spending, solely for war purposes, the sum of about one hundred million dollars every day of the week. But before this year is over that rate of expenditure will be doubled. This means that a sum equal to more than half of the entire national income will be spent in the war effort.

Profits must be taxed to the utmost limit consistent with continued production. This means all business profits—not only in making munitions, but in making or selling anything else.

And I therefore believe that in time of this grave national danger, when all excess income should go to win the war, no American citizen ought to have a net income, after he has paid his taxes, of more than $25,000 a year.

I earnestly hope that the Congress will pass a new tax bill at the earliest moment possible. Such action is imperative in the comprehensive all-out effort to keep the cost of living down—and time is of the essence.

All stabilization or adjustment of wages will be settled by the War Labor Board machinery which has been generally accepted by industry and labor for the settlement of all disputes.

Most workers in munitions industries are working far more than forty hours a week, and should continue to be paid at time and half for overtime. Otherwise, their weekly pay envelopes would be reduced.

At a national policy, the ceiling on farm products—in other words, the maximum prices to be received by the producers of these products—should be set at parity.

I have been urged by many persons and groups to recommend the adoption of a compulsory plan of savings by deducting a certain percentage of everyone's income. I prefer, however, to keep the voluntary plan in effect as long as possible, and I hope for a magnificent response.

I am confident that as to many basic necessities of life rationing will not be necessary, because we shall strive to the utmost to have an adequate supply. But where any important article becomes scarce, rationing is the democratic, equitable solution.

The result will mean that each and every one of us will have to give up many things to which we are accustomed. Our standard of living will have to come down.

age all citizens to contribute to the cost of winning this war by purchasing war bonds with their earnings instead of using those earnings to buy articles which are not essential.

"To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must ration all essential commodities. There is a scarcity, so that they may be distributed fairly among consumers and not merely in accordance with financial ability to pay high prices for them.

"To keep the cost of living from spiraling upward, we must discourage credit and installment buying, and encourage the paying of debts in mortgages, and other obligations; for this promotes savings, retards excessive buying and adds to the amount available to the creditors for the purchase of war bonds."

President Roosevelt will outline to the nation over radio tomorrow night the comprehensive anti-inflation program he will present to Congress today, senate Democratic Leader Barkley said after a White House conference this morning.

The hour for the broadcast was not announced.

The President's plan, dealing with problems of rising living costs, was to be sent to the congress shortly after midday.

Mr. Roosevelt was expected to discuss his broad program with the American people in a radio address later in the week. An announcement of the date was expected some time today.

The President, discussing stabilization of remuneration, said he thought no legislation was required "under present circumstances."

"I believe that stabilizing the cost of living will mean wages in general can and should be kept at existing scales."

Then he gave a brief summary of the government's labor policy, for which congress had been waiting before taking any action on restrictive labor legislation.

Gives Up Right

Organized labor, Mr. Roosevelt said, has given up voluntarily its right to strike during the war. Therefore, he said, all stabilization or adjustment of wages will be handled by the war labor board machinery which he said is accepted generally by labor and industry for adjustment of all disputes.

After remarking that strikes were at a minimum, the President said that in all fairness, existing contracts between employers and employees must be carried through to their expiration date, with existing machinery for handling labor disputes continuing to consider inequalities and the elimination of substandard of living.

Most workers in munition industries, he said, are working far more than 40 hours a week and should continue to be paid at time and a half for overtime. Otherwise, he said, their weekly pay envelopes would be reduced.

This apparently, was his stand on efforts in congress to abandon the law requiring payment of time and a half for hours worked in excess of 40 a week.

Only an all-embracing program will suffice to keep the cost of living in check, Mr. Roosevelt said. "When the cost of living spirals upward week after week, and month after month," the President said, "people as a whole are bound to become poorer, because the pay envelope will then lag behind rising retail prices. The price paid for carrying on the war by the government and, therefore by the people, will increase by many billions if prices go up."

Then, recalling the old saying that "that which goes up must always come down," the President spoke of the hardships and heartaches in the years after the last war. "We do not intend after this one," he said, to present the "same disastrous situation" to the brave men fighting our battles today in all parts of the world.

Of the two points, taxes and farm prices, requiring legislation now, the revenue issue is already under consideration in the House. The President said he thought the objective of holding down excess profits and raising large sums to finance the war could be attained through tax processes.

Declaring that the country was spending about $100,000,000 a day for war purposes and that the rate would be increased before the year ends, he urged taxing of profits to the "utmost limit consistent with continued production." He said he meant all business profits, not only those from making munitions. Congress, he said, should define "undue or excess profits; and anything in excess of that specific figure should go to the government."

With regard to the second item requiring legislation, Mr. Roosevelt asked for adjustment of the parity formula.

Under the present complicated formula of existing law, the Chief Executive said, farm prices may rise to 110 per cent of parity or higher. "In the case of many articles," he asserted, "this can mean a dangerous increase in the cost of living for the average family over present prices."

So, he asked that the formula be corrected to restore the original "excellent" objective of obtaining only parity for farmers.

Moreover, the President urged that the government be permitted to retain authority to sell surplus farm commodities at the market price.

Asserting that he hoped for a magnificent response, the Chief Executive said he would welcome any opportunity to "share in the fight of civilized mankind to preserve decency and dignity in modern life."

He said it was better to call the total effort of the American people an "equality of privilege" rather than "equality of sacrifice." "Free men and women, bred in concepts of democracy and wedded to the principles of democracy," he said, "deem it a privilege rather than a sacrifice to work and to fight for the perpetuation of the democratic ideal."

dor to Turkey, appeared today to be trying to impress that thesis on the uneasy Turks. Reuters, in London, quoted a French news agency dispatch from Istanbul which in turn quoted Von Papen as having told friends that Germany could not open any new front this year; that she must defeat Russia before fall because she could not face a fourth winter of war there.

Hitler's promises yesterday of reprisal against the British of a great victorious decision to be worked out by the Germans on the eastern front and of a rule in Germany leaving not even a Nazi judge or an army officer to interfere between the Gestapo and dissidents at home or at the front must have had only a distracted audience, if any, at Rostock.

The fuhrer's message to the supreme reichstag at Kroll Opera House was followed by the Berlin radio's early morning announcement:

"British bombers last night continued their terror raids on residential quarters in Rostock. Houses were again damaged and there were killed and injured among the civilian population. Two British bombers were shot down."

In planes downed the German announcement of two was not much as compared to past claims and British admissions. It indicated perhaps that Germany's defenses, at least in the Rostock area, had broken down.

But Hitler was attempting to make good his threat of reprisal. Bath, 100 miles west of London, underwent its second successive night raid. Last night's was "short and sharp" with extensive damage and "fairly heavy" casualties. The assault was not so heavy as on Saturday night, however, and the raids could now be compared with those at Rostock.

No other German or British city had received such a pounding as Rostock in so short a time.

Fires Are Still Abaze

Fires set on three previous nights were still abaze last night, beckoning the RAF men to their targets. New bombs were sent to burst in the Heinkel Aircraft Works, the London Air Ministry said, and fresh fires plumed up.

A German interceptor plane was destroyed by one of the bombers at the North Sea, evidently the route to Rostock which lies about 200 miles inside reich territory.

Besides the return trip to Rostock, docks at Dankeberg were bombed again, mines were strewn anew in enemy waters and an enemy supply ship was set afire by bombs off the Danish coast.

The British acknowledged three bombers and one fighter missing from the night operations and said four German bombers were destroyed and a number of others damaged over England during the night.

Russia reported fierce but minor fights along her vast front and in Kishinev, the belief persisted that any moment might bring resumption of major action.

The Germans announced "local offensive activity" by German infantrymen and shock troops in unspecified sectors and said several Russian attacks were repulsed.

In the Mediterranean-African theatre the latest reports covered the sinking of four heavily laden Axis supply ships enroute to Libya by British submarines, a British air raid on the Sicilian town of Catania, non-stop attacks by the Germans on Malta and minor air, land patrol and artillery actions on the Libyan front.

Guard to Mobilize

Mobilization of the State Guard has been ordered for all parts of the state during the blackout which is scheduled for some night this week, according to Col. W. H. Conner, commander of the First Regiment. Under the mobilization orders members of the guard may drive to their respective armories with dimmed lights on their cars and be challenged by air raid wardens will show identification cards and proceed on their way.

New York, April 27 (AP)—The stock market partially reversed its recent downward drift, today and modest recoveries were registered in most departments.

While demand was exceptionally light throughout, and many leaders failed to get anywhere in particular, fractional plus signs were the rule near the fourth hour. A few blue chips continued to lag.

Bidding was attributed partly to the better brand of war news and the belief the market had pretty well discounted cloudy earnings and dividends prospects and was in line for a come-back. The President's message to Congress on national economy legislation was about up to wall street expectations.

Bonds and commodities steadied. Among better acting stocks were Santa Fe, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Montgomery Ward, Chrysler, Edison, Anaconda, Consolidated Edison, Johns-Manville, Goodrich, Phelps Dodge and Du Pont.

Tube Motorman Held by Police

Court. Assistant Prosecutor William T. Cahill of Hudson county asked that the court direct police to turn over to Prosecutor Daniel T. O'Regan all records of the accident for a thorough investigation.

The third car of the heavily laden Hudson and Manhattan train from Newark to downtown New York jumped the track and lurched along 75-feet underground at the Exchange Place Station. Four other cars of the six-car train left the rails after the third was derailed and only the head car remained on the tracks.

Daniel Casey, public safety commissioner, declared "The responsibility is definitely the motorman's."

Police Chief Harry W. Walsh told the court Vierbuchen insisted in a statement that the accident happened at 10:03 p. m. while he was operating a westbound train. Walsh said the accident occurred at 10:48 and the train was east-bound, toward New York.

The derailment cut power lines, plunging the tunnel into blackness at the deepest point on the line, just before the train burrows under the Hudson river. Acid fumes gushed from storage batteries in the wrecked car, which left the track with a blinding flash and burst into flames. Women shrieked, car windows were kicked out. One negro girl, pinned under a seat, had to be extricated by acetylene torches.

Casey identified the dead as:

Mrs. Anna Stevens, 34, of 7821 89th avenue, Woodhaven, Queens, N. Y.

Morris Hutter, 36, 146 Johnson street, Providence, R. I., and 252 Lehigh avenue, Newark.

Christensen, Tiempo, 32, of 63 Popular street, Jersey City, a civilian mechanic at the Brooklyn, N. Y., Navy Yard.

Rube Greenberg, 31, of 801 East 16th street, Brooklyn, who died in the Jersey City Medical Center early today of internal injuries.

An unidentified negro about 30 years old.

All but 100 of those injured were released from the Medical Center after treatment for superficial injuries.

Police and fire department rescue squads descended by elevator to the scene, setting up floodlights to remove the injured. The fumes were so heavy that the rescuers donned gas masks.

At the street surface, busses, taxicabs, private automobiles and ambulances were waiting to speed the injured passengers to the Medical Center.

The passengers had graphic stories to relate. Sixteen-year-old Martin Stevens kicked out a window and carried his mother out of the third car, unaware that she was dead.

Martin sobbed out this story: "We were riding in a forward car. Suddenly there was a terrible crash and our car turned over. I was knocked on my face. When I got up there was my mother beside me."

Mary Neilan of Brooklyn, N. Y., who suffered a shoulder fracture, recounted she was "thrown from my seat. I remember people stepping all over me and the dust was in my throat. It was very smoky. A man pulled me out of the window. The next thing I remember I came to, out on the platform."

A spokesman for the New York Telephone Company announced in New York that the wreck had smashed eight of its 16 cables in the tunnel, severing trunk lines to 1,200 pairs of wires each with 27,000 telephones in Staten Island, N. Y., and 250,000 telephones in northern New Jersey.

The tunnel is the oldest in service linking New Jersey with Manhattan. It was completed in 1904 under the administration of the late William Gibbs McAdoo, then president of the Hudson and Manhattan.

The New York Telephone Company estimated it would take two days to completely repair its damaged cables, although some were expected to be back in service today. A spokesman explained that each of the cables has from 130 to 1,200 pairs of wires each and that each wire would have to be spliced by hand.

Expression of Faith

Answering the question as to why the government does not provide these needed funds, it is suggested that "The best reason for raising the fund of $5,000,000 through voluntary gifts of many Americans is that such action will convincingly demonstrate to the men of the Navy and their families that the American people are squarely behind them. No such comparable result could be attained if funds were provided by taxation."

Chairman Saxe has named the following as leaders for the campaign for funds in the towns of the county:

MRS. CHESTER STODDARD BLISS
The wedding of Miss Ruth Christina Brinnier, daughter of Mrs. Parker Kemble Brinnier and the late Mr. Brinnier of 26 Pearl street, to Corporal Chester Stoddard Bliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Bliss of 188 Henry street, took place Saturday afternoon, April 25, at 4 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Maurice W. Verno, rector, officiated at the English ceremony. The altar was banked with white stocks and candelabra, and the church was in candle light from the white tapers placed in the windows.

The music for the service was sung by the full choir of 32 male voices under the direction of Robert Williams, organist and choir-master of the church. As the bride entered the church just before the bridal march, they sang the traditional "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" to the famous "Vespers Choral." During the service proper the choir sang the "Deus Misereatur" to the famous "Princess Mary Chant" by Dr. T. Tertius Noble. The recessional hymn was "Love Divine, All Love Excelling." Before the ceremony Mr. Williams played a recital of French, Spanish, Swedish and American numbers and for the entrance of the bride the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin." Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played as the bride party left the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, John V. E. Brinnier, wore a white satin gown with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice, full skirt gathered at the hip line and train. Her full length veil of white illusion was caught by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of white sweet peas, swansonia with a white orchid center.

Miss Ruth C. Britt, as maid of honor, wore a gown of French lilac and carried a cascade bouquet of magenta sweet peas with white rose center. The bridesmaids, the Misses Betty Gill, Catharine Locke, Nancy Boice and Jean Larkin, wore gowns of lilac lavender and carried cascade bouquets of lavender sweet peas with yellow rose centers. All of the attendants' gowns except for the train were styled the same as that of the bride. They wore net flower hats to match their gowns and white kid gloves.

Coterie Studies Art

Of South American Lands
Coterie met Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank L. Golinick, Presidents Place. The paper of the afternoon was given by Mrs. Harry Smith.

Her topic was Artistic Tendencies of South America. Briefly she mentioned Mace's Exhibit and Fair held in New York city recently. On display were some of the paintings and sculpturing as well as exquisite hand made lace made by the women of Paraguay, and the weaving of old textiles by the Quatemalan Indians.

She also spoke of the literature of the countries, particularly of the poetry of Colombia. She gave a brief summary of the theatre and the attention to music. Some of the South American musicians were Claudio Arrau, Chile's great pianist of music who is one of the country's remarkable artists. She also told of a publishing firm in Argentina where composers may publish their own music. Golinick, who is only 23 years old, has had a number of compositions published there. Carlos Isamit has collected many Indian legends and melodies and incorporated them into music. She mentioned that the two influences on the art were the native and European backgrounds, and of Stravinsky's particular influence in Argentina.

Hymn Festival Uniting All Choirs Will Celebrate Music Week; Other Services

As one of the events in the celebration of National Music Week, the Protestant churches of Kingston and vicinity, under the auspices of the local Ministerial Association, are sponsoring an ambitious all-city interdenominational hymn festival and pageant, to be held on the evening of May 10 in St. James Methodist Church.

The services of Dr. H. Augustine Smith, world-renowned hymnologist and authority on church music and art, have been engaged for this event. Dr. Smith is professor of religious music and art at Boston University's Schools of Theology and Music, author of "Lyric Religion," articles on church music and art, editor of "The New Church Hymnal," "New Hymnal for American Youth," and other literature and hymnals, conductor of Boston's famous "Choral Arts Singing Society," lecturer, conference leader, pageant master and world traveler.

He will be in Kingston all day May 10, conducting the opening worship service at the First Baptist Sunday school at 9:45 a. m., preaching at the morning service of the First Reformed Church at 11 o'clock, showing his famous "Temple of Religious Art," a fine collection of religious pictures, and conducting a round-table discussion on problems of church and Sunday-school music at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer at 2:30 p. m.

These appearances will be preliminary to the main event of the day, the all-city hymn festival and pageant, for which St. James Methodist Church was chosen because it is the largest and best adapted to a service of this kind. A mixed choir of 200 voices including members of all the choirs of the area, will participate in the festival, in addition to a large group of young people who will assist in the pageantry features.

SHOULD A WOMAN SECRETARY GIVE BIRTHDAY PRESENT TO EMPLOYER?

Two young women, both having been for a number of years personal secretaries to men in the early fifties, ask my opinion on the propriety of giving their employers birthday presents. The one who writes me says:

"My friend, Miss A., has been with Mr. X. six years. She never gave him a present either at Christmas or on his birthday until this past Christmas. She says she just knew instinctively that the time had come when this expression of good-will was permitted. She agrees she would not give some employers a present, ever, but that in the case of her own Mr. X. she was sure he would be pleased."

"I told her that I thought a small Christmas gift was all right, but that a secretary should not give her employer a birthday present. I can't explain why I think the situation is quite different. I have myself given my Mr. Z. a little gadget — always of trifling cost, but something I knew he could use every Christmas almost ever since I came to work for him. Will you tell us both what you think about this subject?"

This is one of those "depends-upon-individual" situations. But I do agree that a birthday present seems more personal than a Christmas present, and that any present of value would be in questionable taste. The sort of gift that the word "gadget" suggests — something of scarcely more value than a birthday card — would probably be all right. As a matter of fact, a real birthday card, if its message is amusing and not sentimental, could hardly be questioned. Even so, the best general rule to follow in every present-to-a-man situation is: When in doubt, don't! Moreover, in spite of agreeing that gadgets may quite well be given and accepted with pleasure, I would like to add seriously that I think it's a bad plan to encourage presents from young women to their employers. Even when the employer is a woman it can be over-done too easily.

Girls Ask About Chaperon

Dear Mrs. Post: Don't you think it permissible for a group of young girls, all around 15, to go to the skating rink and to the neighborhood movies, early in the evening, alone, without any older person for a chaperon?

Answer: To the skating rink in the afternoon, yes; movies in the neighborhood in the afternoon, yes; either of these places in the evening, no.

Stone Ridge Library Honors Miss Cantine

On Thursday afternoon a tea was given at the Stone Ridge Library by the Board of the Library in honor of Miss Katherine Cantine. Those present were the library trustees, the librarians and members of the Monro Club. Mrs. C. C. Hardenbergh poured.

During the tea, guests were taken on a tour of the library, being shown through the new juvenile reading room and the museum upstairs over the library as well as the old reading rooms. Several new gifts to the museum were on display. Outstanding among which were two strings of old fashioned pung bells, donated by Mrs. Frederick Davis. Another prized gift to the museum was the wedding veil of Miss Cantine's mother, Charlotte Hasbrouck Cantine. This veil was made by Mrs. Cantine herself, and worn when she was married to James Cantine in 1838. Another gift from Miss Cantine was an old Dutch Bible, owned by Matthew Cantine in 1678.

Part of the interesting collection of the museum was displayed in a handsome new show-case donated to the library by Mrs. E. C. Chadbourne.

The library is now open to the public, Wednesday afternoons as well as the usual Saturday afternoons and Wednesday and Saturday evenings.

Mrs. Eleanor White, 30, an employee of the hall; her son, Mansfield, three, and a daughter, Gail, six, burned to death on the second floor of the stone and frame structure.

State police reported Frank Rose, the proprietor; his wife, Fay, her son, James Murray, 20, a boxer, Casimir Morawiec, barely escaped when their dog barking awakened Murray. The dog died in the blaze.

Cause of the fire was not immediately established, and firemen from East Greenbush and Rensselaer who fought it were unable to estimate the loss.

JEFFERSON

Beckley, W. Va. (AP)—Mrs. O. N. Hutchinson doesn't profess to know a great deal about autographs or the autograph market; but when she found a deed signed by Thomas Jefferson she knew she had a valuable document. Her discovery came while she rummaged through an old chest which held papers that had belonged to her maternal grandfather, S. W. Willey. She was inspecting them closely when her attention fastened on a particularly unusual signature: "Thomas Jefferson." "And to think I might have thrown this away," reflected Mrs. Hutchinson.

Three Arrested On Theft Charge

Police Charge City Trio
With Burglary

Peter Leonardo, 24, of 11 Broadway, Preston Coddington, Jr., 21, of 23 West Strand, and Timothy Countryman, 18, of 13 DuBois street, all charged with burglary, third degree, waived examination when arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court this morning, and were held to await the action of the grand jury. Bail is to be fixed in county court.

The three were arrested Sunday following the discovery of a burglary at the Connelly Drug Co. store on Broadway at West Strand. The store is now operated by Carl and Louis Weber, who also own Weber's Pharmacy at 55 Broadway.

Entrance to the store was obtained through a rear window and a number of articles including fountain pens, cartons of cigarettes, flashlights, etc., were stolen.

The arrests were made by Sergeant William J. Leonard and Officers George Bowers and Grover Hoffay, who were called to the store when the burglary was discovered Sunday morning.

Leonardo has two charges of burglary lodged against him; one with breaking into the drug store at 2 o'clock Sunday morning and the second for again entering the store at 3 o'clock that morning.

According to the police Leonardo broke into the store at 2 o'clock and then left the store and returned later with the other two men.

The police say that all three men, following their arrests were taken to police headquarters where they signed statements.

All of the loot taken from the drug store was reported recovered with the exception of some cigarettes.

Laboratory Aids in Major Defense Measure

Shown in top photo is Walter J. Lyons, technician, in the blood bank room located in the Kingston City Laboratory where donors are taken to give blood. The bottle shown above on the table with tubes contain anti-coagulant. All operations are carried out under strict sterile precautions. Local anesthetics are used in the skin which leaves the donor without pain. Mr. Lyons is shown above holding a bottle of Mayor William F. Edelmuth's blood. The mayor was the first donor for the local blood bank.

Shown in the above photo is Vincent J. Meleski manufacturing intravenous solution which is used in hospitals and nursing homes throughout the county for pre-operative and post-operative treatments. Food and fluids are administered this way at such times when the patient cannot drink or eat. The equipment pictured above is adequate to supply the whole county in case of emergency.

Queen Ceremony Listed for May 15

Friday evening, May 15, in conjunction with the American Legion rally and reception. The crowning of the queen will be by New York State Commander Jacob Ark of Rochester, who will be the guest of Ulster county Legion members on that date.

The general committee in charge of the Apple Blossom Festival ceremony for 1942 made the announcement of the coronation ceremonies today after completing arrangements with the American Legion committee in charge of the rally and reception.

Paul Zucca, chairman of the coronation committee, and Herman I. DuBois, past commander of Kingston Post, and chairman of the Legion rally committee along with Commander Stanley

Dempsey of Kingston Post, No. 150, the host post for the rally, stated that plans had been worked out for the coronation ceremony as a part of the evening's festivities.

The Apple Blossom queen for 1942 will be selected from one of the seven Greene county high schools where keen rivalry is now going on in the contest to determine which school shall have the honor. On Friday, May 1, at the Cairo high school one of the girls entered in the contest and representing her own school will be selected as queen to reign over the Hudson Valley for the ensuing year.

After the 1942 Apple Blossom queen has been selected Friday at Cairo, the remaining contestants will be appointed to the queen's court and act as her attendants at the coronation ceremony on May 15. The selection of the 1942 queen is under the direction of Edward J. Thomas, Greene county chairman and vice-chairman of the general committee.

On Friday evening, May 1, the members of the general committee will travel to Cairo and attend the selection ceremonies at which time Mayor William F. Edelmuth will extend to the queen and her court an official invitation from the city of Kingston to attend the coronation ceremonies here on May 15.

The coronation of the 1942 Apple Blossom queen will be a special feature of the Ulster county American Legion rally and reception.

The queen and her court will be escorted to the stage by a military guard with the American Legion Junior Band playing the march. There Mayor Edelmuth will extend greetings to the queen and her court after she has been seated on the throne and the crowning ceremonies will be performed by Commander Ark.

Miss Betty Barnum, 1941 Apple Blossom queen of this city, will present to the 1942 queen the scepter which is the emblem of office and which the 1942 queen will retain until her successor is elected.

The 1942 Apple Blossom queen will be presented with an award on behalf of the American Legion and following the coronation ceremonies the queen will preside over the first dance as her first official duty. The honor of having the second dance of the evening with the 1942 Apple Blossom queen will go to Commander Ark. From then on the festivities of the evening will continue in an informal manner.

Members of the musicians union of Kingston are co-operating with the Legion members and are donating their services for the dance. There will be no admission charged to the dance and the public is extended an invitation to attend the ceremonies.

Arthur Flemming Becomes Member Of Manpower Unit

member of the United States Civil Service Commission.

Washington, April 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt has designated the eight members of the War Manpower Commission which will channel the nation's labor supply into the war effort. Its chairman is Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator.

The President's selections announced yesterday were Wendell Lund, head of the new labor production division of the War Production Board; James V. Forrestal, undersecretary of the navy; Secretary of Agriculture Wickard; Secretary of Labor Perkins; Goldwater H. Dorr, New York lawyer who has been civilian consultant to Secretary of War Stimson since January; Chairman Donald Nelson of the W.P.B.; Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, and Arthur S. Flemming, a member of the Civil Service Commission.

Lund's selection was the first official announcement of his appointment to the new labor unit of W.P.B. He is 35 and has been the executive director of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission. In federal employ a few years ago, he worked in the agriculture and interior departments. A joint A.F.L.-C.I.O. committee recommended him to the President last Friday.

Each member of the commission will represent the agency to which he is now attached. All the agencies given representation deal with some phase of recruiting and training men for the armed services or for government and private civilian jobs.

Kingston's Blood Bank Is Opened by Edelmuth Saturday at City Laboratory

Kingston's first blood and plasma bank was officially opened on Saturday afternoon at the city laboratory by Mayor William F. Edelmuth, who made the first donation of his blood to the bank.

Others who made donations of blood included members of the American Legion, the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, and members of the donors' list of the C. O. D.

The opening of the new department at the city laboratory Saturday marked another forward step in the facilities the laboratory is offering to the public of Kingston and Ulster county.

The new department will not only maintain a blood and plasma bank, but is also set up to manufacture intravenous solutions.

This service will be available to all physicians, hospitals and nursing homes in Ulster county.

In the fall of 1941 the need for such a department became evident to many of the citizens of the city and county including the laboratory board, the volunteer firemen, the American Legion and the office of Civilian Defense.

Recent conferences have led to the unification of effort on the part of these organizations with the Office of Civilian Defense acting as the procurement agent for the donors, while the maintenance of the blood and plasma bank will be in charge of the City of Kingston Laboratory.

How Bank Operates

When a donation is made the blood is typed and the blood test for syphilis is performed. If positive the blood is discarded. If the test is negative the blood is preserved by proper refrigeration for a period not exceeding one week.

During this time it may be used for whole blood transfusions if needed.

After a week's storage the blood begins to lose its desirable qualities as whole blood, but its fluid content, or plasma, still retains highly important therapeutic value.

This plasma is removed from the blood cells and then stored in a frozen condition which protects its valuable qualities for many months.

It has been estimated by military authorities that there should be one pint of plasma immediately available for each hospital bed in every community.

This means that 350 pints of plasma should be collected for Kingston alone, necessitating approximately a thousand donations of one pint of whole blood.

For Ulster county, as a whole, it is estimated that 700 pints of plasma should be stored.

For Civilian Defense

Such a store of plasma will be primarily for civilian defense in Ulster county, but it could also be made available to the armed forces of the nation upon their request.

If it should ever become necessary to collect blood on a very large scale the city laboratory with its new department now has all the facilities necessary.

Who May Donate

Every one in good health between the ages of 21 and 55 is urged to become a volunteer donor to this bank.

Those persons who have transmissible disease of one sort or another are required not to volunteer as the blood they donate would have to be rejected for the bank.

Such diseases are active tuberculosis, syphilis in any stage, malaria and undulant fever.

In case there is some other acute infectious disease at the time a donation is requested the volunteer should delay until the acute phase is over.

Non-contagious diseases such as severe hay fever, constantly recurring hives and asthma, after produce a property in one's blood which causes an undesirable yet not serious reaction in the patient who receives the blood.

For the present time it is felt that people afflicted with these non-contagious diseases should not offer their blood.

Those persons who are not yet 21 years of age, but who are rugged individuals and meet the acceptable conditions of health may donate to the blood bank if they have the written consent of their parents to make such donations.

When a patient in one of the hospitals or nursing institutions in the city needs a transfusion, adequate quantities will be supplied by the blood bank with the understanding that the blood will be replaced by his family or friends.

A charge will be made to the patient for the use of the blood which, as with all other laboratory services, will be within his ability to pay.

Manufacture Solutions

The manufacture of intravenous solutions by the use of the most modern scientific equipment will provide adequate quantities for Ulster county, independently of the demand outside. It will also be possible to continue the manufacture of these solutions at the laboratory even when the usual transportation facilities to and from the city are curtailed or disrupted.

The success of the maintenance of a blood and plasma bank at the city laboratory not only requires the services of a number of donors, whose blood can be used, but also the use of the most modern equipment.

This equipment has been purchased and is now installed in the laboratory.

There is also considerable detail work in connection with the bank, such as typing and tests the blood of the donors and in keeping it in perfect condition.

As blood donated can be kept only for a period of one week the supply must constantly be renewed, which necessitates the enrolling of a number of donors willing to donate a pint of their blood when it is needed.

Boys on Barge Get Taste of Warfare

Californians Row to Abandoned Hulk in Path of U.S. Plane Maneuvers

Los Angeles, April 27 (AP)—

Three boys rowed out to an abandoned barge about a mile off Malibu yesterday, hoping to catch some bass and barracuda.

They didn't get any fish. They didn't stay long enough. Before they had a nibble, a formation of six planes dived at the barge and machine-gunned it.

The boys, W. L. Williams, 18; his brother, Roy, 16, and Harry La Roque, 18, had picked the wrong barge—the wrong area, in fact—for fishing.

The barge once was known as the Prentice. It now serves as a target for army and navy fliers. With the first fusillade of bullets the boys took to cover behind a wooden stanchion, and as the planes soared for another drive the frightened trio made for their rowboat.

But alas, the rowboat had capsized. They started swimming. About 300 yards away they reached the comparative safety of another barge, this one not designated as a target. The Coast Guard rescued them and brought them ashore.

The La Roque boy was slightly hurt. Splinters knocked by bullets from the barge were imbedded in his right foot.

The boys said they didn't know the navy department had issued an order forbidding any boat to leave shore without a permit.

Tojo Says War Faces Difficulties

near Lommel and shot down all five without loss to themselves.

At least four planes were destroyed by the Allies at Lommel.

Military sources at Allied headquarters in Australia voiced belief that the continuing American-Australian offensive in the air, harbingers of all-out action being prepared to crack the backbone of Japanese bases facing Australia, might force a speedy showdown.

The Japanese can ill afford to sit passively in their present island lodgments while the Allies build up a striking force in Australia, they said.

By this reasoning the Japanese would have to attempt one of three courses—invade Australia, broaden the island invasion front with a view to cutting American supply routes to Australia or attack New Zealand.

The recent landing of American troops on the French island of New Caledonia—subject of a pending protest by Vichy to Washington—was viewed by observers in Australia as a move to thwart Japanese expansion to the east on the flank of the supply route to Australia.

It was reported that the Japanese have been concentrating fresh invasion forces and material in their Marshall Islands in apparent preparation for some new operation which may bring the United States fleet into action.

Some observers foresaw the possibility of a great naval battle somewhere between Hawaii and New Zealand.

In Burma it was a question whether the hard-pressed British Imperials and their Chinese comrades-in-arms could stay the Japanese push until the monsoon rains come with their prospect of hindering Japanese communications.

Stranded in City

Frank Tetro, 15, and Richard Burleigh, 14, both of West Nyack, found themselves stranded in the city Saturday night, without funds. The boys were at the West Shore railroad station inquiring about trains. They said they were on the way to Red Hook, but had become lost. The boys were placed in the Volunteers of America Home here for the night, while the police department sent a message to their families. Sunday afternoon they were turned over to their mothers and taken home.

Maple Hill Brush Fire Burns Cable

Service Is Interrupted for Short Time

A brush fire in the swamp along the Kingston-Rosendale road at Maple Hill burned over some 6 or 7 acres in area Saturday afternoon, seriously damaging a cable of the New York Telephone Company and putting out the service between Kingston and Rosendale.

The fire started in the tall brush about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, damaging about 1,400 feet of cable which contained 51 pairs of wires. Service to Rosendale and High Falls was cut off and the hamlets were isolated so far as telephone service with the outside world was concerned. Service between the two places was maintained. Workmen for the company made temporary repairs and by 6 o'clock a temporary line was functioning. The new cable was installed and in operation as usual by 8:30 o'clock.

Extreme heat from the burning brush melted the lead cable and cut off service. The quick repairs to the cable indicated the ability of the company to meet an emergency and the installation of some 1,400 feet of heavy cable by night called for some fast work on behalf of the crews.

A plan has been drawn up to get rid of the German sympathizers and to tie the disconnected systems together in a direct hook-up, but no action has been taken yet.

"We want the communications systems of South America to remain in the hands of South Americans. We do not intend that they will be controlled by big business firms of the United States. But we want

Submits Report

Highland, April 27—Mrs. A. W. Lent, chairman of the War Relief presented the following report of the year's activities: "The War Relief is just one of the functions of the Highland Council of Church Women of which Mrs. D. S. Haynes is the president. The Council appointed the committees to represent them at a meeting held June 3, at the Presbyterian manse and attending were Mrs. Joseph Mellor, Mrs. Lottie Smith, Mrs. Troy Cook, Mrs. Allen Sheeley, Mrs. Charles Roumelis, Mrs. William Denby, Mrs. C. P. Ayres, Mrs. N. D. Williams, Mrs. Willard Burke and Mrs. Heston Woolsey. Two other members not present were: Mrs. Mary Frigo and Miss Joan Friedman. Mrs. S. A. McCormac and Mrs. Haynes to sit with the committees. During the year's work the following changes in personnel have been made: Mrs. Harvey Slater and Mrs. Anthony DeMare have represented St. Augustine's in place of Mrs. Frigo and Mrs. Ayres, and Mrs. Jacob Schuhle has replaced Mrs. Allen Sheeley for the Methodist Church. At this time the following courses of action were determined and have been followed: A weekly column for the users of the War Relief committee and Council, to be headed for the year—"Thy Kingdom Come—Through Work United of Hearts Can Be." 2—Gifts of money for War Relief were to be made directly through various churches, agencies, and to the point of sacrifice. 3—United China Relief and Bundles for Britain were the two channels in which the Council resolved to work. Art posters were made by Miss Helen Sykes and these went with cartons placed in the four churches. Grange hall, Sugar Bowl, Ennist Hardware Store, bakery, Muller's Drug Store, Doty and Humphrey, Callahan's store, Wilcox store, Evan's store, bus terminal Highland, high school, Anzevina store, First National Bank, The Elms, Lent building, and Friedman's Shady Lawn Lake House. Through the kindness of Lloyd Post American Legion, the sorting, weighing and packing of collections from those boxes have been done at their headquarters. Weekly collections in charge of the churches represented on the committee continued from September until January semi-monthly; and from then until now monthly. Bundles for Britain were sent to 302 Fair street, Kingston, and Mrs. William Denby found Miss Heston Wight of New Hamburg to send the Chinese collections through. Bundles for Britain has become Bundles for America and results of collections have been as follows: 112 pounds tin foil; 64 pounds aluminum bottle caps; 85 pounds candles; 56 pounds buttons; four large boxes stamps, about 40 kits for bombed civilians, many of which were made by the young people during last summer; two quilts made by the Queen Esther Club, two by the Evening Reading Circle and three by Mrs. Welker's Neighborhood Group; nearly 100 hospital tray cloths; four quilts for China out of clothing and other pieces. From every collection at least one large carton, and usually two or three, of clothing and articles for bombed civilians have been sent to Bundles for Britain. The Women's Society for Christian Service, and Reading Circle, The Episcopal Women's Auxiliary and many individuals have assisted in the necessary repairs of garments. Rags and paper have found their market through the Robinson firm. This money goes to China.

Mrs. S. A. McCormac was in charge of knitting for this committee and has given out 124 hanks of yarn during the year, and sold four sets of knitting needles, realizing $1 which was used to buy yarn. Articles made and returned to Mrs. McCormac and delivered to Bundles for Britain have been 20 sweaters, 35 pairs of socks, six hats, 13 pairs of thumbless mittens, two pair seat-belt stockings and two pairs of gloves. Seventeen different women participated in this work.

Mrs. Joseph Mellor, treasurer of the war relief committee collected during the year $19 from premier tickets to the exhibition of Colleen Moore's doll house, $27 from the sale of an Afghan by the ladies of the Holy Trinity Church and a gift of yarn by the P. E. O. Sisterhood, and $4.50 from rags and paper. The first two amounts were used for British relief, and the last was sent to China. There is a balance of $3.85 which will also be sent to China. Mrs. Mellor closes her report saying, "I have never worked with a more co-operative group except when we prepared for the Church Women's Luncheon. I realize more and more the power for service that lies in 'United Hearts.' I find the same loyal spirit and fine sense of fellowship as in June, only closer and deeper."

Another 'Line of Defense' Comes Out

Registration Is Held at Capital

President and Other High Officials Sign Under 45-65 Orders

Washington, April 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt and the bulk of 13,000,000 other Americans in the 45-65 age group were called upon to register today to complete, except for the 18-20 year olds, the nation's inventory of manpower for both fighting and non-combatant war duty.

To minimize interference with work on war jobs, the second biggest enrollment since the war started began in some areas over the week-end and will continue after today where necessary. Today was R-Day for most, however. The Chief Executive, who was 60 last January, arranged to register along with other White House officials in the cabinet room of the White House. He was not exempt despite his position as commander in chief of the armed forces, although he had announced he would register while that point was still undecided.

It was understood that he would be given a 1-C classification, which covers those already in military service. This is the same grouping given registrants who enlist while awaiting induction.

Aided by American Legion officials, members of Congress by the score registered in the rotunda of the Capitol.

Senator Mead (D-N. Y.) and representative Patton (D-Tex.) were the first with Representative Wadsworth (R-N. Y.), co-sponsor of the Selective Service Act, close behind.

Officials said that Vice President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn would register together later in the day.

The 45-65 age group will not be subject to military duty, but will be classified by occupations and skills for possible war production jobs.

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, said recently that men and women over 45—even those with children—would be sent into production lines to replace men capable of serving with the fighting forces when the nation reached the peak of its war effort. Women will be asked to register voluntarily later.

Men between 18 and 20 are subject to registration now under the law, but no date has been set for enumerating them. Meanwhile, they are being encouraged to enlist. Like the 45-65 group, they are not subject to military duty in the draft.

Today's nose-counting was the fourth since the present emergency and the second since the United States entered the war. When completed, about 40,000,000 men from 20 through 64 will have been registered. Previous registrations in round numbers:

October 20, 1940 (21 through 35) 16,900,000.
July 1, 1941 (turned 21) 750,000.
February 16, 1942 (20 through 44) 9,000,000.

Men required to register today were those who were 45 on or before February 16 last and who had not reached 65 by today. Hours of registration were 7 a. m. to 9 p. m., with volunteers assisting some 6,500 local boards in the counting.

The same simple questions asked military registrants were to be asked the older men who were to be given buff-colored registration certificates to be carried at all times. No lottery will be necessary to give them order numbers since they are not subject to military duty, but local boards will assign serial numbers.

Later the registrants will be sent occupational questionnaires.

Freeman Photo

The local Selective Service office was a crowded place Saturday and Sunday when the men between the ages of 45 and 65 registered for service. Shown above top is the crowd waiting to register at the local board. Below William Simkens of 324 River street, Hoboken, N. J., can be seen answering questions for Ernest Cronquist, one of the many men who are helping the local board. Mr. Simkens is a large captain and has been in the services of the United States at Manila in 1902 to 1904 in the Revenue Cutter Service, a branch of the U. S. Coast Guard and was also a member of the New Jersey State National Guard in 1911 to 1913, and in 1913 with the New Jersey National Guard in Washington, D. C., during the inauguration of President Wilson.

F.S.A. Advises Farmers to Apply Early for Loans

Farm Security Food for Freedom loans henceforth will be made on a "first come first served" basis in Ulster and Sullivan counties, Donald Hammond, F. S. A. supervisor in Ulster and Sullivan counties, warned today.

Pointing out that F. S. A. loan funds are limited, Mr. Hammond said, "The farmer who needs credit to get into this war against Hitler and Hirohito better get started now. The bandwagon is moving fast, and nobody will be prevented from climbing on for lack of funds to expand production. But this is important. We can't help the man who won't help himself."

Ulster and Sullivan county farmers have responded to the call for all-out production "on an unheard of scale," the supervisor said.

"Small farmers realize that it is up to them to boost production to new peaks because they alone have the unused labor to multiply output," Mr. Hammond said. Since Pearl Harbor the F. S. A. has been swamped with applications for assistance from farmers who have not been able to secure credit to pass and surpass the goals they have set for themselves.

"The Farm Security Administration will give credit and technical advice to every farmer in difficulties—as long as the money holds out. That's the reason we've set up this new 'first come first served rule'."

F. S. A. Food for Freedom loans are being made to farmers unable to obtain credit at reasonable rates from other sources. The loan money may be used to buy livestock, fencing, seed, fertilizer, equipment or other materials needed to increase stocks of the vital war foods.

"It is just as important to conserve food as it is to produce it," Mr. Hammond said. "That's why we're making loans for canning either by groups—large or small—or by individuals. It would be criminal to allow food to go to waste this year."

Farm youngsters who are members of 4-H or Future Farmers' Clubs may obtain F. S. A. Food for Freedom loans provided they are recommended by club leaders and are unable to obtain needed funds from other sources, Mr. Hammond said.

April Milk Pool
New York, April 27 (AP)—The April milk pool for New York milkshed farmers will be $14,250,000, the metropolitan federal administrator estimates, a record for the second consecutive month. N. J. Cladakis forecast yesterday a uniform price of $2.28 a hundred-weight (47 quarts) to producers in New York, Pennsylvania, Vermont, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts, estimating a 625,000,000 pound volume for the month.

Music Finals Are Held Saturday: Local High School Choir Gets Rating of 1-A

The finals in the two-day Music Competition-Festival at the local high school were completed Saturday evening. During the evening there were three sections playing simultaneously. All were of the highest class of development and gave some of the best performances of the entire festival.

Of particular note for Kingston people was the Kingston High School A Cappella Choir which was the only organization of the local school to receive a rating of 1. Their performance closed the competitions as they sang seven numbers for the large audience in the Myron J. Michael School auditorium. They wore the maroon and white gowns.
